ADHD Apps List

40 apps we reviewed, matched to the part of your day they help with.

There is no single best ADHD app. Find the line that sounds like you on page 2, then use the table to compare price and platforms. Every app name links to our full review.

Stuck right now? Try this in 60 seconds

1. Write the task down in a few words.
2. Shrink it to a first step you could do in 2 minutes, like "open the document".
3. Set a timer for 2 minutes and do only that step.

FOCO does steps 2 and 3 for you: it splits the task into timed steps and starts the timer. Get FOCO

How we made this list: we read each app's store listings, its own site and independent sources, and wrote a full review. We did not test the apps hands-on. We make FOCO, so weigh its pick with that in mind. Prices change; each review shows the date we checked.

THE APP WE MAKE

FOCO: for the moment you can't start

- Say, type or snap it. Add a task by voice, text or a photo of a handwritten list, and it lands in your calendar.
- AI splits it into timed steps. Each step gets a time estimate, so the first one feels small enough to start.
- Focus with company. A focus timer with calm music and an AI companion on screen.

$59/year with a 7-day free trial, or $9/month
