

ADHD Bedtime Routine Checklist

14 small steps, split into wind down (calm your body and brain) and set up tomorrow (remove decisions before you're too tired to make them). Check off what you need tonight, skip the rest.

WIND DOWN

☐ Set a bedtime alarm
Signals that it's time to start winding down

☐ Put devices away
Reduces stimulation before sleep

☐ Dim the lights
Cues your brain that night is coming

☐ Take meds or supplements (if relevant)
Consistency matters more than timing

☐ Wash up and brush teeth
A physical cue that the day is ending

☐ Light stretch or relaxation
Releases physical tension from the day

☐ Brain dump on paper
Empties racing thoughts before bed

SET UP TOMORROW

☐ Lay out tomorrow's clothes
Removes a decision for tomorrow morning

☐ Pack your bag
One less thing to think about tomorrow

☐ Check tomorrow's calendar
Reduces morning surprises

☐ Set out one visible reminder
Connects tonight to tomorrow's first step

☐ Charge your phone away from bed
Reduces the temptation to scroll

☐ Tidy one surface
A small win waiting for future you

☐ Note one good thing about today
Ends the day on a steady note
